Dear Exhibition Committee,

Luo Hong is not only a passionate photographer but also, a passionate environmental advocate who has, through his images and sponsorship of the United Nations Environment Programme's (UNEP) childrens' painting competition in China, brought new levels of environmental awareness to his country and beyond.

Cambridge University's hosting of his work will delight and inspire visitors and students at one of Britain's great seats of learning. It is perhaps especially appropriate that Cambridge is displaying Mr. Luo's photographs. The city is home to many internationally-renowned scientific and environmental centres from the British Antarctic Survey and the Scott Polar Institute to Birdlife International and Flora and Fauna International. It is also a city which hosts UNEP's World Conservation Monitoring Centre. The Year 2010 is also the UN's International Year of Biodiversity and Mr. Luo's photographs reveal both the beauty and the fragility of our shared natural world.

I take the opportunity to offer my best wishes for a very successful exhibition.
